CURING BY FAITH.—There is an unprecedented sensation among the negroes in the Black district, near Raleigh, N. C., the cause of it being a woman who is working, it is alleged, marvelous faith cures in Nash county. The woman is an African of the most pronounced brunette type. Yesterday a gentleman visited the grounds consecrated to the priestess of conjurations and faith cure. He found the roads for hundreds of yards leading to the spot cumbered with vehicles of every conceivable character, all conveying the afflicted in body and mind. The woman receives her devotees and cries aloud in a peculiarly deep voice, exorcising the evil spirit of disease, imaginary or real; then she anoints them with water drawn from a well near by, at the same time requiring the patient to imbibe a portion. The spot, she claims, was pointed out to her by an angel. These scenes have been going on for ten days. Each day brings a crowd greater than that of the day before. The woman fills bottles with water, blesses it, and these are carted off in countless numbers. She makes no charge, but accepts whatever may be given her. Excitement runs high and is widespread. The multitudes that place implicit faith in the efficacy of her cures are astoundingly large and constantly swelling. The woman's name is Mary Edwards. She is about 32 years of age. The gentleman who visited her entered a double house, and found the front room crammed and jammed with all ages and sizes of both sexes. One at a time is admitted to the inner sanctuary. The woman avers that she was born entirely white, and that the knowledge of her mysterious and marvelous power came with her dawning reason. She has followed her present calling some time, and it is reported that she has taken in nearly $1,000 in the four weeks she has been established at her present quarters. Persons from many counties visit and seek relief at her hands. Her white patients are not small in number. —St. Louis Globe Democrat.

ANOTHER EDMOND DANTES.—Col. Musser relates an interesting incident of army experience which occurred while he was in command of the post of Washington, Ark., in the summer of 1864. The story as related is told by a Federal officer, a prisoner in camp, to Capt. James T. Oley, of the 8th Missouri Infantry. The captain was playing the part of the hospitable host toward his guest and prisoner through the medium of a couple of tin cups and a jug filled with homemade whisky, clear as crystal, and uncontaminated by an excise tax. Lieut. Boren was a Federal officer in an Ohio regiment, and had fallen into the hands of Dick Taylor about the time of Banks's Red River expedition. Becoming weary of captivity and disgusted with Confederate rations, he planned with several of his fellow prisoners a scheme by which at least one of their members might make their escape. Whisky was played to determine which one should be given the first chance. Lieut. Boren won. In accordance with the scheme agreed to, he feigned death, was buried by his comrades in a shallow grave, and succeeded in making his resurrection after the departure of the Confederates and companions. The deserted grave was discovered during the day by some loiterers about the camping place and the ruse "dropped out," and reported to the commandant at Marshall, La., who immediately set a pack of bloodhounds to track the fugitive. After the trail was struck all of these but one was called off. This one continued the pursuit, and at the end of the third day overtook and treed the lieutenant in the dense woods near Washington, Ark. The bound guarder the tree for three days and three nights, until the soldiers, who took their time in the pursuit, arrived and again took charge of the well-nigh starved fugitive. —St. Paul Republican.
